

— The Gnostic Society —

Although the subject for debate was a hard one to handle, the debators did well, noticeably the leader of the Negative, who spoke excellently for a new member.

The society was favored with two short speeches, one by Prof. Mordorf, one by Mr Decant, which they seemed to enjoy greatly, especially the comic story related by Prof. Mordorf, the point of which was so easily seen.

On the whole it was an exceptionally well conducted meeting and although this, may, in a measure have been due to the presence of the two members of the faculty, it is to be hoped that the same good order will prevail when they are not present.

H. B. Caldwell

Critic